

Native Hawaiian Population Statistics Update

Updated: March 20, 2001

Policy Analysis & System Evaluation PASE Report No. 2000-2001: 18 March 2001

Native Hawaiian Population Counts: 1990 Census - Single Race

Total U.S. Hawaiian Population 211,014

Race & Ethnicity in the Census 2000

- Hawai'i State is a very diverse population. Roughly one in every five of the 1.2 million in the state declared more than one race -- compared to only 2.4% of the nation's total population, and 4.7% of California's population.
- Total Asian population 703,232 [i]: The most common race response in Hawai'i was Asian, followed by White, and Native Hawaiian or Pacific Islander (NHOPI).
- Total NHOPI population 282,667 <sup>i</sup>: People reporting NHOPI race were the most racially diverse. 40% of Hawaii's NHOPI category marked only one race, while the remaining 60% reported more than one race. Most Asians marked a single race and about 61% of Whites in the state reported a single race/ethnic origin.
- How many Hawaiians? The answer to this question is yet unknown. Although more than 80,000 individuals reported Hawaiian race with no other racial category, more detailed race data are currently unavailable to count what promises to be a much larger population of multiracial Hawaiians.
- i Note that these numbers are not unduplicated counts because they reflect individuals who report one or more races by each category of Asian, White, or NHOPI race.

Notes:

<sup>3</sup>Home Schooling data as of 11/98. Assumes Hawaiians continue to be represented in the Home School population at the same rate as in 1992.

Summary

- The Hawaiian population is rapidly growing and increasingly diverse
- A significant number of Hawaiians live outside the state
- It is a relatively young population
- Hawaiian students make up somewhere between one-fourth and one-third of the school-age population in Hawai`i
